

Synthetic Respondents without Ambivalence?

A Population-Fidelity Audit of Large Language Model Survey Simulations

Song Ge

Wuhan University

Author note. This manuscript was prepared as a computational social science writing sample. The empirical analysis uses deidentified Chinese General Social Survey data and locally generated Qwen3-8B responses.

Correspondence. Contact information should be added here before journal submission. It is omitted from the writing-sample copy.